80-Year-Old Father Kills Son in Tragic Error

SHOT IN DARK, NO. 1 ANSWER MAN SAYS

By ALAN FRAZER

North Andover, Jan. 19.—At the scene of a party in years gone by, stark tragedy was enacted today, as 80-year-old Salvatore Lamonia shot and killed his son, Paul, 52.

They lived alone together in a house that once was College Inn, on Turnpike street, near the Middleton line.

Paul, about 50, of Lamonia's first wife, remained with him in his old age. And now Paul is dead and his aged father, heartbroken and mourning, sits in the local police station charged with murder.

"ALL A MISTAKE"

It was all a mistake, according to the old man—a mistake having its origin, curiously enough, in the house's festive past.

Salvatore thought his son was just another stranger, coming in at the dead of night, to demand assistance, not knowing the house was no longer an inn.

To that twist of thought, he got out his revolver. And the gay, wild story of the end, gray tragedy, was told in a dark, dimly lit room, and a live fire in the dark, as old Salvatore blazed away at his son.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Lamonia said he first saw his son, who had come to the window, when he was in the kitchen. He charged him with murder.

He said he saw his son, who was in the kitchen, when he was in the kitchen. He charged him with murder.

House in Uproar On Edward Attack

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—A house of Commons today over the Archbishop of Canterbury's broadcast criticizing the "social net" of former King Edward.

The Hon. Edward Albert Pitt-Rivers, speaker of the House, was compelled to intervene three times in the debate.

He said he had picked up the speech had been submitted to the government in advance. In reply, Mr. C. D. Payne, government spokesman, said:

"No, sir. When a broadcast is given of a religious service conducted by the head of the church, it is not the practice of the R. B. C. to ask that the text of the address be submitted beforehand."

So, Boston Man, 81, Is Dying of Burns

Trapped in a third floor apartment in a Boston street, William Henry, 81, said he had been burned in a fire that broke out in his apartment.

The house is owned and occupied by the first and second floors by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Fisher.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher escaped from the flames.

Aboard Colonial Express En Route to Washington, Jan. 19.—On their way to Washington—and to one of the great experiences of their lives—are 20 airplane boys and girls, winners of the Boston Evening American's Roosevelt Inaugural Tour competition.

Their essays, written on subjects vital to the history of American government, were judged best of more than 10,000 submitted by students of New England high schools.

So today, just prior to their departure, they are being taken to the airport, where they will board the airplane.

The trip is a five-day journey from home for many of the young contestants.

They will be taken to the airport, where they will board the airplane.

HAPPY DAYS HERE AGAIN, THEME OF INAUROUS

CAPITAL BLOOM

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 19 (INS)—Flags flying and spirits high, the capital prepared today to induct Franklin D. Roosevelt into the Presidency for his second term at high noon tomorrow.

A festive atmosphere prevailed in Washington in marked contrast to four years ago when Mr. Roosevelt first assumed the duties of government under the black clouds of a national crisis so grave that it chilled the exuberance of the Democrats just returned to power.

This time it is different. The clouds, in most of them, have rolled away, and the theme song for Mr. Roosevelt's second inauguration is "Happy Days Are Here Again."

That rollicking tune will be played officially tomorrow, marking the end of the four-year term which has been called upon to see a solemn and dignified occasion at the inauguration of a President from the standpoint of world peace and enthusiasm. The complexion of Mr. Roosevelt's victory has been combined with better times to add record-breaking throngs of people into the capital from all parts of the country.

The only serious note was the weather. "Rain and cold" was the forecast, if that made from a lot of inaugural fairs and big bashes in for an unpropitious period.

Four years ago the handbells of the time, however, were not heard. Today, they conveyed some Washington fairs, such as the one, with money to spend, intent upon celebrating.

While there were a dozen special trains four years ago, today there were only two.

More than thirty governors were coming today to inaugurate, compared with 24 a year ago. The thing will go on all week, with dinners, banquets, receptions, balls, and entertainment of all kinds.

JACKSONIAN FETE

There is a Jacksonian fete in the White House, when Andrew Jackson was inaugurated in 1829. The party is being given in the White House on the twentieth of the week and celebration.

The inauguration ceremonies themselves are relatively simple, more so than in other years. There is the shift of date from March 4 to Jan. 20.

Always before Presidents have been inaugurated on the first of March, Mr. Roosevelt is the first to inaugurate on the first of January. He will take the oath of office in the Senate chamber, and then will move to the White House to receive the capital from the outgoing President.

The inauguration ceremonies themselves are relatively simple, more so than in other years. There is the shift of date from March 4 to Jan. 20.

SADDER Ex-Convict WISER COMING HOME TO MOTHER

John J. Killian, 51, unkempt, bedraggled and hungry—a paroled felon from Charlestown prison—has but one ambition. In New York, he wants to come home to his mother in Somerville.

Today his bright dream was near realization, after he told his story to Magistrate Overton Harris in Jefferson Market court, New York city.

The story was: He had been sentenced to life in Charlestown prison for his part in a drug store robbery-slitting in Somerville in 1907.

His sentence was commuted by the late Calvin Coolidge, then Governor of Massachusetts, and he was paroled after 15 years.

Boston Forever

He related his proofs by leaving his country, but was soon convinced "I want to live with my mother, she needs me so much. I need her," he told New York police when he gave himself up.

He promised that once again released on parole, he will never leave Boston.

MAGISTRATE HARRIS announced he would turn Killian over to a friend who has promised to take him to his mother in Boston.

Killian said his mother is Mrs. Mary White of Somerville. Edward C. Bagley of Boston, deputy commissioner of corrections, says Boston authorities do not want Killian if he lives up to the terms of his parole in the future.

KISSES In Townsend PLAN TESTER MUST SPEND $200

Chelan, Wash., Jan. 19 (AP)—C. C. Fleming—he's the man who was given $200 Saturday and told he must spend it in 30 days—confessed a bit sheepishly today at 63:

"I haven't kissed my wife so many times in one day since we were married."

With $200 left, there will be more kisses.

His 58-year-old wife bestowed one hearty smack in appreciation for a permanent wave; another for a $2.47 hat; another for her new clothes he ordered.

Then, the unemployed orchard worker, the "laborer" for a test of the Townsend old age pension plan, kissed his wife before the movie cameramen. He kissed her once more for the news cameramen. Then he kissed her for about 30 seconds, they began planning new things to buy.

Spendingthrift!

Enough orders are out to shoot the expenditures to $90. Fleming is buying a $30 overcoat, his first new one in years.

The $100 already spent from money given Fleming by from Lusk, Chelan County Townsend supervisor, also includes: Groceries, $12.28; electricity bill, $19.96; Townsend Club dues, $1; and church collection, $1.

Each dollar bill bears a tag for the signatures of every person through whose hands it passes within a month. Each also pays a 2 per cent transaction tax on it.

One of the bills bore eight signatures today, representing 16 cents added to the revolving pension fund.

Jealousy Victim Stabbed Beauty Fights for Life

MRS. MAUDE RIVARD

EX-FOLLIES GIRL SUFFERS RELAPSE, SUITOR HELD

New hemorrhages suffered today by Mrs. Maude Rivard, 34-year-old former Follies girl, placed her name back on the danger list at City Hospital and gave surgeons a new fear for her life.

As William F. Carbone, 29-year-old Cambridge tire salesman, faced arraignment in Municipal Court on a charge of attack with intent to kill, the girl's relapse occurred.

The seriously injured woman, he sweetheart since childhood days according to Carbone's story to police, was slashed in the neck and arm.

Carbone's alleged attack took place in Mrs. Rivard's apartment in Allendale street, Back Bay, and, according to his story, resulted from a quarrel over the attentions being paid her by another man.

Carbone told police the trouble started four weeks ago after her admirer gave her an expensive present. He said he told his husband during the depression and was unable to give her such lavish gifts and the present of her other admirer started the lengthy argument.

The argument started again yesterday afternoon, he told police and during the course Mrs. Rivard slipped him several times.

Finally, he said, he became so enraged that he drew a pocket knife and slashed at her several times.

At first he refused to talk but when told Mrs. Rivard might die he agreed to tell police his story.

He expressed regret that he had injured Mrs. Rivard but said he was driven by desperation when she told him she no longer loved him.

Floods in Midwest Rout Thousands From Homes

By the Associated Press

The mighty Ohio river surged at flood stage along its entire 960-mile course today and threatened additional destruction of life and property in at least eight states.

From Pennsylvania to Arkansas workers battled flood waters created by heavy rains. Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Illinois and Missouri were other states menaced by swollen streams.

Thousands of persons fled from their homes when flood waters engulfed lowlands in the Ohio Valley. Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas.

Six deaths were attributed to floods, two each in Illinois and Indiana, one in Missouri and one in Kentucky.

Federal officials said more than 2500 Works Progress Administration workers were fighting flood waters.

The Ohio reached a 57.2-foot level at Cincinnati early today, 5.2 feet over flood stage. Its waters virtually isolated Newport, Ky., where more than 800 families fled to higher ground. At Paducah, Ky., Va., the Ohio forced 230 persons from their homes.

WPA Supervisor C. L. Blanton said the river must be whipped today "so it will whip us." Farmers, sharecroppers, WPA workers and CCC boys joined in the fight.

Eggs were thrown. The Mississippi would rise to 38 feet here this week, four feet above flood stage. This would cover lowlands between the river and earthen dykes, built to within a foot of 45 to 50 feet at the Memphis gauge.

Blonde Again Tells of Smith, Jr., Affair

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The old-story of a rendezvous with Alfred E. Smith, Jr., one of the former presidential candidates, was repeated today by Catherine Parker, under cross-examination in an extortion trial of Max D. Krom, private detective, and A. Henry Ross, Brooklyn attorney.

Miss Parker told the court that a statement she is alleged to have signed in Krom's office June 3, 1935, was "true except for the part where it said Smith attacked me."

Krom and Ross are charged with extorting $100 from Smith under threat of exposing his friendship with Max Parker. The statement said she and Smith attended a party on Riverside Drive to which she had been invited, the statement said, and Smith started to take her home. They stopped along the way, the statement said, registered at a hotel as "Mr. and Mrs. Ogyn."

Allan A. Ryan, Jr. Wed to Edith

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Allan A. Ryan, Jr., grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, and Edith Barry, daughter of Dr. H. Barry Ryan, were married today by Justice Philip J. McCook in his chambers in the Superior Court building.

Edith is a daughter of the late Dr. H. Barry Ryan, a physician and a member of the New York State Bar Association. She is a graduate of the University of California, Berkeley, and is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

DESETER FROM SPANISH REDS REACHES PORT

A story that rivaled fiction was told in Boston today by Richard Barry, 34-year-old New York man, who said he had been lured to Spain with promises of rich rewards for fighting with the Red army.

Barry was aboard the American Export liner Exeter, steaming away from New York today, after he had been lured to Spain with promises of rich rewards for fighting with the Red army.

FIGHT HIGH BAIL IN GEM THEFT

Worcester, Jan. 19.—Terming the arrest of a man and woman in connection with the $125,000 jewel robbery at the Southboro home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kennedy a "training expedition by the police," Attorney Harold Aronofsky of Boston, counsel for both, arrived here today to seek their release on lower bail.

At Worcester court last, Samuel Landon, 42, of Boston, is being held in $25,000 bail on a charge of armed robbery.

In another cell in the women's quarters, pretty red-haired Mrs. Dorothy Cullen Lewis, 38, also of Boston, is being held in $25,000 charged with being an accessory after the fact of the robbery which occurred last November.

Aronofsky also said he might institute habeas corpus proceedings immediately.

For outbond in Miami, Fla., the second man under indictment, Joseph Brulles, 26, of Newark, N. J., is being held pending the arrival of Massachusetts authorities. He was indicted on an armed robbery charge in connection with the gem theft.

KIDNAP SUSPECT TO FACE WITNESSES

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 19 (AP).—Eyewitnesses of the Charles Matton kidnaping will confront ex-convict Leigh Haskell Fowler, 36, now that he has been compelled to grow a beard, it was learned today from an unimpeachable source.

This was disclosed as Federal Bureau of Investigation agents finished questioning Fowler for the third time at Bellingham, Wash.

The meeting of Fowler and the witnesses—will take place, it was reported, when he is taken from the solitary confinement cell in the Whitman County jail within the next few days to the state penitentiary at Walla Walla.

There he will serve 20 years for a kidnap December 17, in Bellingham.

Although Fowler repeatedly has asked permission to shave, Sheriff W. T. Farmer has refused. The sheriff said he acted on instructions of federal agents. The kidnap of 15-year-old Charles had a dark beard.

The trail of the man who kidnaped and killed the boy could be followed by one of a series of clues left by federal, state and local authorities.

Officers in several cities reported the release of men detained for questioning because they appeared to resemble the shabbily-dressed man who stole the Matton boy from his Tacoma home on the night of last December 27 for $25,000 ransom, then stood at accepting payment.

AUTO PARKING BONDS URGED

Charges that New York and Chicago racketeers are interested in the operation of parking spaces in Boston, were leveled today by State Representative Edward Baileigh before the legislative committee on legal affairs.

He urged favorable action on a bill providing a $500 bond for all operators of parking spaces. Car owners cannot recover for damage to their machines, nor take action against the operator if the car is stolen, he declared, because the racketeers assume responsibility.

"That's because New York and Chicago racketeers, through mortgages and other means, are interested in the operation of the parking lots."

20 BOSTON AMERICAN GUESTS OFF FOR INAUGURAL

MARY C. MCNULTY

ETHEL WALKER

Twenty busy diaries will tell a wonderful story for ten boys and ten girls who are now on their way to Washington as guests of the Boston Evening American. Ethel Walker of Salem High School, right, is working on her diary, as Mary C. McNulty of Notre Dame Academy, Roxbury, looks on.

(Illustration from Educational News Magazine)

En route to Washington today to witness the second inauguration of Franklin Delano Roosevelt as President of the United States are twenty jubilant boys and girls, winners of the Boston Evening American Roosevelt Inauguration Tour Competition. The photograph, showing the winning boys and girls was made alongside of the train that is taking them to Washington, at the South Station, just before 9, this morning. Front row, left to right, you meet: Alex Theodore Mahfuz, Brighton; Cabot Rowland, Arlington; Ronald Ward, Cambridge; Walter E. Chaulk, Cambridge; John Coleman Bates, Randolph; Joseph E. Boothroyd, Maynard; Edward Fitzpatrick, Braintree; Ernest Singer, Boston; Walter S. Trask, Jr., Cambridge and Charles H. Savage, Jr., Boston. Back row, left to right: Barbara L. Seaver, Lynn; Carolyn Shaw, Framingham; Ethel A. Walker, Salem; Rita Regan, Somerville; Mary C. McNulty, Roxbury; Anna M. Laudani, Lawrence; Eileen MacPherson, Boston; Mary Clifford, Springfield; Blanche Winer, Palmer and Virginia King, Everett.

of beating nothing and fathers. One damper on the occasion was the mistletoe which deprived Miss Mary E. Colwell, 15, of Boston, City Club of the opportunity to be a member of the excursion party.

Deaths of her mother, Mrs. Hannah E. Colwell, made it impossible for her to leave home.

In her place, an alternate, was named Miss Carolyn Shaw of Warren road, Framingham, a student at Framingham high school.

All day today, the inaugural tour party remained aboard its Pullman as it sped across the rails, en route to the nation's capital.

Tonight, at Washington, automobiles will greet the visitors at the station, whisking them to the hotel where reservations have been made for them.

There'll be a big Inaugural Tour dinner. Men and women prominent in the affairs of the nation will attend. There'll be speeches, music, dancing.

Early tomorrow morning, the student guests of honor will leave for the presidential inauguration scene, to take their places in the parade.

Rain, Snow in Capital

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Weather Bureau forecasts today, rain, possibly mixed with sleet or snow, for President Roosevelt's inaugural tomorrow.

This gloomy prediction was issued as a cold rain fell on a crowded capital, stretching streets and red, white and blue decorations lining broad Pennsylvania avenue.

Lighted homes the nation can best see, a place of power unequalled in the world today.

Tomorrow night, the contest winners will be guests of Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, nationally known society woman and newspaper publisher.

For the young visitors from Boston, the lady arranged a dinner dance, to which have been invited notable of Washington's political and diplomatic circles.

On Thursday the Boston Evening American party will visit points of interest at the capital, then make an automobile tour in historic Annapolis and the United States Naval Academy.

Finally, on Friday, home to Boston again once more by Pullman! It's memorable enough to last a lifetime!

Roosevelt, Jr., Asks Doctor's Advice on Fishing, Tennis

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 19 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., recuperating from a severe infection and complications, sought his physician's advice on sports today.

He wants to go fishing and he wants to play tennis with Donald Trump, the nation's top-ranked tennis player.

The President's son is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont, parents of his fiancée, Miss Ethel du Pont. The house is on an island in the Gulf of Mexico, with Charlotte Harbor to the east.

Baron Guller, who owns vast tracts of Florida's southeast, has invited Roosevelt to Orange Island to go fishing. Budge already is on his way to Orange Island.

The five-time tennis young Roosevelt is taking things easy. He said he would take up athletic work of his choice again.

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE :- By Beatrice Fairfax

Too Long Engagement Apt To Cause Girl to Die An Old Maid

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Everyone remembers the story of the Frenchman who was engaged to a lovely lady for 20 years and kept putting off the marriage on the grounds that, if they married, he'd have no place to spend his evenings.

This is not just stuff; it's fact, and only too true about a good many men here in these United States.

They become engaged, something prevents an immediate marriage, and they keep on having all of the privileges of a fiance, which include keeping every other eligible man away.

And yet the marriage is as far off as ever. Take this letter for example:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"When we first became engaged, there were definite reasons why we couldn't be married. Each of us had obligations in the way of relatives to be helped, and our marriage seemed a distant blessing."

"These obstacles were removed, yet now we no longer seem married."

"My fiance seems to have faded into the habit of being an engaged man. We spend every evening together. Some at a dance; again we stay home. I talk of our being married, but he always puts the question off."

"30 years of age, I am beginning to wonder if we are ever going to be married."

"My mother had a friend who was engaged to a man for 15 years; then he married a younger woman."

"Will that be my fate?"

"I want to be loved, but I must confess I am uncertain what to do next."

"ANNA MAY."

A TYPICAL PROBLEM

Anna is not the first girl who has written to me about drifting into the doldrums of an interminable engagement, with next prospects of marriage ahead.

A girl in this state merely holds a marriage, and the debt is likely to become outlandish.

One thing to be considered about a lover of this type—it is wise to enter into a waiting contract that seems to have no time limit, with a man who appears unwilling to see his name on the dotted line of a marriage certificate.

Putting aside the argument which always comes up in favor of long engagements—that it gives a couple really a chance to become acquainted before the final vows are spoken—the fact is they may really come to know each other too well.

Pauline, observed during the first glances of courtship, may grow to find that like photographs negative, she is too bright.

And the girl realizes too late that the dilatory tactics of her lover have kept away more desirable men, and that her fiance now seems unwilling to make good on his end of the bargain.

Long engagements are undoubtedly an emotional strain which is difficult for human nature to bear.

THE BETTER WAY

The first impulse of young lovers is to rush off to the church or the justice of the peace to get the ceremony over with as quickly as possible. To regret it afterward is that they both to the altar without knowing enough about the other party, that it isn't love at all, but merely a case of temporary fascination.

But it's a question, all said and done, if this is not a better way than the long-drawn-out engagements that lead to nothing but disappointment.

A letter in this morning's mail, from a man who apparently has made good, to judge by the prosperous trade name on his business stationery, tells that he married when he had but $10 in his pocket. And that, he thinks, proved to be the spur which helped him to make good.

"I was no poker," he writes. "I didn't want the girl I married to starve, so I hustled and hustled, got a clerkship in a shipping concern, and today I'm vice-president."

There's inspiration for you.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Please let me say, before I embark on this confession, that I am looking this young lady out once or twice. I like her when it comes to getting it. I like to be a definite interest in the picture."

And apart from petting, I have liked lots of girls because they were companionable, good sports, and amusing. All of these qualities I've enjoyed without the least feeling of love.

Since coming to Walworth six months ago, I've tried to make some genuine feminine acquaintances, and one girl seemed companionable, intelligent and amusing. I took this young lady out once or twice. We went to movies and dances and motored in my car. I have positively no emotional interest in her.

Imagine my amazement, while we were driving the other night and stopped for a few minutes to look at a very lovely view of the river, when she said to me, "I like you very much."

And apart from petting, I have liked lots of girls because they were companionable, good sports, and amusing. All of these qualities I've enjoyed without the least feeling of love.

Since coming to Walworth six months ago, I've tried to make some genuine feminine acquaintances, and one girl seemed companionable, intelligent and amusing. I took this young lady out once or twice. We went to movies and dances and motored in my car. I have positively no emotional interest in her.

Imagine my amazement, while we were driving the other night and stopped for a few minutes to look at a very lovely view of the river, when she said to me, "I like you very much."

Beauty Enriched by Perfect Grooming

Fastidious Daintiness Is Key to Feminine Charm at Office

By DONNA GRACE

IT'S the person who keeps the dust off her velvet and the crisp flare in her neckwear who appears well-dressed. Good appearance and fastidious grooming are highly important to the professional and business woman, but being well-dressed does not give one the round trip to beauty.

Desk workers, of whom there is a growing band, must keep in mind the idea of posture and the negative influence of inactive hours, or it will all go slipping away into round shoulders, flat chests and growing nervous disorders that have to do with spinal curvature.

Many athletic directors advise a regime for the desk workers in the morning. This is the procedure:

Shortly after the noon hour, open the windows wide, and with a young morning breeze, wash your womanly face and slip into the astringent, and after breathing deeply ten times in the freshened air, take some fifteen exercises.

Of course many do not appreciate the benefit of this routine, but there is a fine line back of it in exercise. There is every reason why you should be watchful of the position that a young girl assumes each day, and, if you do not do so, you will find it in the chair, for one thing.

"It is the proper habit of the body, that is the proper habit of the mind. This is a man's world when it comes to office."

fastidious, in the most. Some progress is being made. Along with the morning and "two-size" equipment can be had. The temporary chair cushion, in many varieties, gives the sudden interest in just this state of affairs.

Every bit as important as a dim, future, such as a good and dainty lingerie is the matter of keeping a body sweet.

It is not a cliche for perspiration to not a cliche for romance or matrimony.

You may have my special left-off on Perspiration Treatment, if you will enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and send it to Donna Grace, Boston Evening American.

JUNIOR ASKS TO TAKE HIS PUNISHMENT WITH CHUM

CHAPTER 284

"I KNOW," Roderick said a bit importantly as Junior stammered his incredulity at my comment that I was glad Roderick had not heeded his wish to keep the secretly-acquired car keys at home.

I promptly took over the explanation.

"I just have told Roderick," I said, "that, terrible as it may seem to you, I am glad this happened this morning. Merely, there has been no death or injury as a result of his action. If he had done the same thing later—perhaps when the rain was on—there might have been killed or made a cripple for life."

"And now," I said with a glance at my wrist, "I want you both to tell me all about this. Have you ever taken a car out on the road before? Did anyone else help you, or give you any idea about it?"

"Tiger or anybody else?" I asked. "I tell you, Annie Madge, there isn't anybody in blame about this thing," he said, with even bravado meeting mine. "Or could you?"

"Jun said about it, but he couldn't bring that 'come and see' together all the time. An he tried his best to have me bring the keys I'd found to you instead of keeping 'em."

I know of never ever used one of the keys or tried to start a car. All he ever did was the thing you told us both we could—sit in the car and wait the wheel a little.

They can't ALL be wrong. This medicine MUST be good. There are three critical periods in a woman's life—when the girl matures to womanhood, when a woman gives birth to her children, and the Change of Life. At these periods Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proves its worth. It is also excellent for nervous, rundown beauties—tired business women—weak young girls—and irritable mothers. It quietly quieting nerves, induces restful sleep and helps Nature to restore a normal condition of health and energy.

SEEKING HER THROUGH

I WON'T GO ASHORE TOMORROW, OR IN DAY OF EVENING MONTH IS SIMPLY OUT OF MY LIFE.

FM SAID YOU SAID SOMETHING IN TIME RIGHT DOWN TO MY STATIONER NOW.

YOU ARE COMING TOMORROW, AND IN SOMEHOW THIS MIDDLE WILL SEE YOU THROUGH THE NIGHT. I KNOW.

HOW DO YOU FEEL MONEY? ANY PAIN?

HOW CAN I THANK YOU? I WOULD NOT FEAR A PARTICLE OF PAIN, IN NOT EVEN TRYING.

THE MOON MEANS ROMANCE AND CLOUTIER INSTEAD OF SUFFERING.

WOMAN WHO KNOWS THAT CAN BE THAT AND A LOT MORE.

EVERY month sees more women seeking the peace and comfort of Midol. It's established to suffer functional periods pain, because there is now a reliable relief for such suffering.

BOSTON BANKS

Among LEADERS IN Nation

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
The 1937 roll call of the largest commercial banks and trust companies in the United States, published today in the American Banker, reveals that local banks stand high among the nation's 15,750 banks.

No less than eight institutions in Boston and vicinity rank among the first 300 in the nation with deposit totals extending from just under twenty million to above six hundred and fifty million dollars.

The inclusion of two institutions outside of Boston clearly indicates that while State street and the surrounding area may be the city of local financial activity it is by no means confined to the city.

The Harvard Trust Co. of Cambridge, Massachusetts, and the Newton Trust Co. of Newton are not far behind in the third position with just a slightly smaller deposit total.

The roll of the American Banker lists, with their rank and deposits, the following local banks:

Rank	Name	Deposits
1	First National Bank	$1,200,000,000
2	Bank of America	1,000,000,000
3	Harvard Trust Co.	800,000,000
4	Bank of New York	700,000,000
5	Bank of Montreal	600,000,000
6	Bank of the United States	500,000,000
7	Bank of the South	400,000,000
8	Bank of the West	300,000,000
9	Bank of the North	200,000,000
10	Bank of the East	100,000,000

Netbook: Aside from the local banks, the Chase National Bank of New York leads the nation. With deposits of $1,100,000,000, it is followed in rank by the Bank of America and in dollars. Following close on the heels of the leader is the Guaranty Trust of New York which in turn is followed at a distance by the Bank of America.

Ticker: Commercial credit earnings estimates are something to write about. If they are placed at $625 per share for last year, the earnings for 1937 are expected to be between $700 and $725 per share for 1937.

MARKET Takes TUIMBLE SPECIALTIES, TOBACCO UP

New York, Jan. 19.—Darkening labor clouds for day brought another fall in the stock market. Tobacco and specialties were exceptions.

While the trading place slowed appreciably after a fast opening, declines of fractions to 2 points were well distributed near the fourth hour.

With automotive strikers clashing with the police at Detroit, and General Motors' stock, most speculative and investment funds were inclined to stand aside.

It required only moderate pressure to push back motor and steel, and the utilities, discovering that the market was not a workers' problem, took the down ward path. Cotton, wool, and tobacco, along with specialties, were exceptions.

Bonds Irregular
Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Shares on the floor included Chicago, General Motors, Electric Auto-Lite, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, North American, American Woolen, Standard Oil of New York, and Standard Oil of Indiana.

Timely Topics
Plague automobile sales have tended to dampen industrial sentiment before the start of trading.

While expanded consumption was expected to partly offset a seasonal increase in fuel oil stocks, most observers in the field felt that the winter demand for fuel oil was unlikely over the near term.

The merchandising division of the United States Steel Corp. is expected to be sold at a price of 100 cents per share, with a 12 per cent premium in the preceding week.
